Sackbut and Trombone – Exhibition

26 May - 26 September 2009

Reid Concert Hall Museum of Instruments
Bristo Square, Edinburgh

Opening Times

The Museum is open to the public twice weekly: Saturday 10.00 - 13.00 and Wednesday 15.00 - 17.00

The Museum is also open for the period of the Edinburgh International and Fringe Festivals (10 August - 5 September 2009) Monday to Friday 14.00 - 17.00.

There is no charge for entry. Access: Enter from Bristo Square.

Sackbut and Trombone explores the long history of the trombone, and its predecessor, the sackbut. See an impressive display of instruments ranging from 1594 to 1999 - from tiny treble to colossal contrabass - from the historically important to the (frankly) bizarre.

The exhibition is curated by Arnold Myers.
